From the Editor

Congratulations, Texas!

This summer's National Tournament in Grapevine/Colleyville, TX was tremendous due to the combined efforts of hundreds of NFL supporters.

I would like to personally thank the students and coaches of the state of Texas for their incredible work as hosts of the 2006 "Bluebonnet" Nationals. The NFL should give special recognition to tournament co-hosts, Cindi Timmons and Jane Boyd for their countless hours of preparation. In addition, a special thank you goes to the coaches and administrators of the Grapevine/Colleyville ISD for their kindness and generosity in allowing us the use of their facilities. Also, the City of Grapevine must be thanked for their warm hospitality.

We continue to be grateful to our Grand National Sponsor, Lincoln Financial Group, for providing fantastic support and encouragement. Also, we are so thankful to the Schwan Food Company, the Stennis Center for Public Service, Western Kentucky University, Colorado College, and all of our national sponsors for their continued commitment to the NFL. It was incredibly exciting to welcome our newest sponsor George Mason University/George Mason Institute of Forensics.

The NFL National Speech Tournament is an opportunity for our League to showcase the talent and efforts of our coaches and students, and to celebrate the strong history and tradition of the nation's greatest honor society. On behalf of the National Forensic League, please accept our congratulations on a great National Tournament!

SPECIAL FEATURES

- A complete text of the major original work of each philosopher

- An excellent teaching tool: Students can use the text and the essay as the basis for class discussions, reports, etc., in preparation for the actual debates.

THE NFL INTRODUCES A NEW AND IMPROVED ONLINE POINTS APPLICATION!

On September 1st, as NFL school's pay their membership dues and become activated for the 2006-2007 season, NFL advisors will begin submitting points online at www.nflonline.org. This year's users will notice a "new and improved" online NFL points application. The new application has been designed to be fast, efficient, and more user friendly than the previous application.

Inevitably, there will be a slight learning curve for those individuals who are accustomed to the previous points application. Knowing this, the NFL National Office will be prepared to supply ample customer service to all online users and will be happy to answer any questions that may arise with the new system.

Our hope is for a worry-free and smooth transition from the old application to the new one, however, with any new system there are bound to be issues that arise during the initial phases of implementation. We ask for your patience as we work toward a better recording system for our members.

Once the 2006-2007 NFL school membership dues are paid to the National Office and the school is officially registered, the NFL advisor will automatically be authorized as an online user and will receive an email with a temporary password allowing him or her to begin entering points.

◆ Coach Profile

Meet JoeAnne Peterson

By Liz Leach, NFL Staff

JoeAnne Peterson coaches at Grand Rapids City High School in Michigan.

What was your first NFL experience?

I judged an NFL tournament for Laurel Scheidt, Portage Northern, around 1996. I was impressed with the quality of the material and with the ease of judging.

When did you decide to be a teacher and/or coach?

It started when I was in first grade. Where other children set up lemonade stands, I organized poetry readings with children, charging a penny admission. I still organize children, I just don't charge admission!

Then there was the librarian in town. At age 12, I set out to read all the chapter books I could get my hands on at the storefront Kent City library. Mrs. Wegal kept pointing me to prose and poetry. She and my English teacher, Mrs. Emrick, conspired, encouraged, and promoted my interest in teaching and literature.

Formally, I started coaching Forensics activities in 1980 when I started the debate and individual events program at our high school. In 1988 I focused my attention on individual events and drama.

What is your team philosophy?

Give kids permission to be what you know they can be.

I try to help students see what I see in them. I expect a lot from my students, but no more than what I see in them: I see them as the amazing young men and women they are. My job as a coach is to help them get a glimpse of that wonder for themselves.

How many hours do you spend with this activity a week?

During the tournament season, I can expect to spend 25 or more hours between class work, rehearsal, and Saturday tournaments. Fortunately, I have the services of an active parents group and the support of another coach.

What is your vision for the future of the NFL?

I think the NFL can play a vital role in urban areas as a means to opening doors and broadening the vision of students. It doesn't matter how poor you are, the skills you learn in forensics are fundamentally a ticket to a better life. Forensics touches on so many areas: reading skills, leadership, self confidence, and not least, presentation.

What is exciting about being an NFL coach in the State of Michigan?

We're growing. It's always exciting to be a part of an organization that is expanding. Each year our qualifying tournaments have grown in participation by students and schools. And it was a real thrill to see one of our Michigan students in the final DI round at Dallas.

What's unique about Grand Rapids City High School as an NFL chapter?

We're a small school (369 enrollment) that competes with schools three and four times our size. Since becoming a chapter in 2003, we have had at least one national qualifier each year.

What qualities do you look for when recruiting students for your program?

Do they breathe? We'll take it from there. I believe there is a place in forensics for everybody.

However, you do look for students who show some kind of engagement or sensibility: Sometimes it is the manner of their speech, a brightness; sometimes it is how they think; most often it is a kind of hunger for something beyond, a wider vision; and always it is a willingness to accept what I see in them.

What is your favorite memory from a National Tournament?

I have attended two national tournaments and have enjoyed them both. Favorite memories include judging the Poetry final round at Dallas, judging a Ted Turner debate round in Salt Lake City, and making and renewing relationships with coaches from across the United States.

A second thrill has been watching my students grow and learn over the space of one week.

What is the greatest challenge as a coach today?

Money. Like other urban school districts, ours faces significant fiscal challenges that in turn limits the administrations' ability to support this activity. We have been able to meet this challenge in part through the development of a strong parent-support group.

Are there any rituals/lucky traditions that you employ as a coach?

*I always send out our students with the comedia del'arte phrase "in bocca di lupa" - literally, "into the mouth of the wolf." In other words, good luck!*

What's your favorite weekend tournament food item?

Mandarin salads at Wendy's.

What Was Your Best Experience at a Speech or Debate Tournament this Year?

Visit the 'Student Resources' section of the NFL website for future question(s) posed.

Jared from Nebraska

My best experience was finally becoming an NFL member because then I felt like a part of the club.

Heather from New York

Though this year was great and full of good tournaments, I would have to say that Districts was the best experience because I made it all the way to the final round and it was held at my school, so I knew my way around and got to hang out with the kids from other schools.

Brittney from Missouri

My best experience this year would have had to have been, my very first performance. I may not have placed, but it was still so much fun and I can not wait until next year so I can do it again!

Stacy from Montana

I would say that my best experience was walking out of a round against my great opponents, holding my head, knowing full well that I had taken second to her, congratulating her, and not having slimed her.

Alyssa from Michigan

My best experience at a speech tournament was during a broadcasting round they didn't include parts of the normal routine script. We were forced to challenge ourselves and take a new approach.

Debbie from Oregon

National Qualifiers are by far the most nerve-wracking, butterfly-inducing, bitten fingernail-producing tournament of the year. So when I ended up qualifying for the second year in the row, I was excited, and just as relieved that the ordeal was over. The car ride home, with two of my best guy friends who had also qualified was definitely my best experience at a speech and debate tournament this year. We rolled down the windows, opened the sun roof, cranked up the music (Phil Collin's Tarzan CD) and celebrated! We were going to Nationals!

Kiersten from Washington

My best experience was when we had a judge from the circuit court watching our round. It allowed for awesome feedback and I knew exactly what to do to win the next round, and it worked! I think that it made a big difference in how I changed what I was saying and how I was saying it this year.

Chris from Nevada

My best experience this year was a learning experience. I learned that trying to perform a humorous interp is not smart if you're in the dramatic interp finals round...oops. It was a lot of fun though! lol.

James from Texas

My best experience was at districts in Congress. I already qualified in HI, but I went to sub for my friend. When I went into the room, I tried on purpose to not get on the ballot, but ended up making 1st in the room and was nominated. That was awesome. P.S. Sorry Coach.

Nikki from Pennsylvania

My best experience at a speech tournament this year was the people. Forensics gives you the opportunity to meet so many new people from different schools. At my first tournament, I expected it to be extremely competitive, but soon learned that it was completely different. I was immediately welcomed by my peers and made some new friendships. It is an experience I will never forget.

Lynn from Oklahoma

The best experience I had at a debate tournament would have to be when I found out I would go to regionals. My friends were excited for me and my coach was proud of me.

Charlie from Florida

My best experience at a debate tournament this year was the opportunity to explore a different college campus every time a tournament was held.

What Is the Most Exciting Thing You Have Planned for the Summer?

Sheila from Illinois

I will be attending speech camp in East-Western Illinois this summer. I can't wait! Ask anyone on my speech team and I'm sure you'll get the same response. "He is soo excited about this speech camp!!!" I can't wait to meet new friends and get new ideas for next years competition. Woo Hoo! I hope the weather is nice too.

Donte from Georgia

I'll be going to Washington D.C, start my new job, maybe go to Florida, and then just swim around.

JC from Colorado

One of the most exciting things that I have planned to do over the summer may not seem that exciting to many other students. My goal is to make a difference in someone elses life both in the community and within my high school. I have started a group called Youth for Community Pride which is geared towards boosting school spirit and student participation. Members of the board and I are making steps to improve the overall atmosphere of Widefield High School. Through my incredible strong desire to give to others, I have taken my ideas and formed them into a group to which I am now the founder and President of. So community service and hard work may not sound exciting to others, but I know that sacrificing things to fullfil your greatest ambitions is going to be one of the most exciting things that I have planned for the summer.

Michael from Missouri

The most exciting thing I have planned for this summer is of course Nationals, because I have always wanted to go to nationals and I finally made it and now I can plan for it!!

Justine from Massachusetts

Speech camp of course! This is my first year going to a speech camp and I'm really excited because I'm going to two (UTNIF and GMIF). It's going to be a ton of fun!

Drew from South Carolina

point blank period. hands down...nationals

Tatiana from Nevada

The most exciting thing I have planned for the summer is to start working on a new DI piece and Policy Topic!

Jareth from Utah

I'm going to basic training for the National Guard. I guess I can't debate myself out of this one...

Jacob from Colorado

I'm off to Peru after Nationals for three weeks. It's going to be quite a blast, doing away with my comfort zone and meeting new people. This is probably the most exciting thing I have planned for this summer.

Lauren from Ohio

I am going to a Forensics Speech Camp at Eastern Michigan and I'm hosting a French exchange student for three weeks in July.

Leah from Pennsylvania

I will be interning at the National Surgical Adjuvant Breast and Bowel Project (NSABP). Under the guidance of Dr. Soon Paik, I will be conducting my own research project in the field of breast and bowel cancer.

The People Speak 2006

In a world witnessing growing tension and strife in foreign nations, the topic of the People Speak 2006 is increasingly relevant. This year, public debates and discussions will focus on:

Working Together With the World: What's In It for the US?

It's easy to get involved. The NFL provides each participating schools with a number of resources to make holding a People Speak event as simple as possible. This year, the NFL will be providing topic resources on the People Speak website as well as a weekly blog, forum discussions, podcasts, and more.

Coaches and students participating in the People Speak will receive a number of incentives, including service citations, National Community Service points, gift store credit vouchers, and more. Events will be highlighted in the January Rostrum.

This year, the NFL will be filming a number of People Speak events for a documentary. In order to be considered for the documentary, the school must have a registered People Speak event.

It's Not Too Late!

People Speak events can be held until November 30th, 2006. Events held by this date will be eligible for all incentives offered by the NFL.

NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR ADVANCEMENT IN THE ARTS

For the past two years the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts (NFAA) has sponsored awards in Dramatic, Humorous, and Duo Interp at Nationals.

So, what does NFAA offer high school seniors?

For 25 year NFAA's ARTS (Arts Recognition and Talent Search®) Program has been recognizing and rewarding the nation's most talented high school seniors in the performing, visual and literary arts. Over 11,000 artists have shared nearly $6 million in awards. Further, ARTS opens doors to scholarships from America's leading colleges, universities and conservatories. Each year ARTS honors approximately 10% of a pool of between 6,000 - 8,000 student artists from across the nation with recognition and cash awards totaling over $500,000.

Every student who registers for ARTS is automatically entered into the Scholarship List Service (SLS), a collective of nearly 100 colleges, universities and conservatories who annually offer approximately $3 million in scholarships. These schools specifically target ARTS participants since these students are "self-screened," having determined that they feel they are talented enough to compete on a national level.

A nationally recognized panel of professional artists and university educators select up to 160 students to travel to Miami all-expenses-paid in January of their senior year to participate in ARTS Week, an intensive week-long experience of master classes, showcase performances, exhibitions, interdisciplinary activities, interviews as well as live auditions. National finalists are selected in nine (9) disciplines: Dance, Film & Video, Jazz, Music, Photography, Theater, Visual Arts, Voice and Writing.

Dramatic, Humorous & Duo Interp

The ARTS program differs from most competitions in that students are only judged against a standard of excellence for their artistic discipline and age group. Students are never judged against each other and the judges are allowed to place as many students as appropriate in each of the five levels of excellence. Each student who attends ARTS Week is guaranteed a cash award of between $10,000 - $500 depending upon their level of excellence.

Additionally, students selected as Honorable Mention award winners receive a $250 cash award and a certificate of recognition however; they are not invited to Miami. An unlimited number of students are selected as Merit Award winners, who receive a $100 cash award and a certificate of recognition.

At the conclusion of ARTS Week, 50 of the national finalists are nominated to the White House Commission on Presidential Scholars for the honor of also being named a US Presidential Scholar in the Arts. The Commission selects up to 20 students exclusively from the ARTS nominees for this honor and the students travel to Washington, D.C. in June following their graduations for National Recognition Week. While in Washington, they are featured in a performance at the Kennedy Center as well as at a visual arts & writing exhibition at a Washington museum. They also receive the Presidential Medallion and are honored by the President.

Obviously, students who participate in the Dramatic, Humorous, and Duo Interp might have an interest in NFAA's Theater discipline. Students who participate in Original Oratory might have an interest in NFAA's Writing discipline (Creative Non-Fiction). Other NFL students may have talents in Dance, Music, and Visual Arts.

Over the years, numerous NFL members have also won awards from NFAA ARTS, including:

Michael Washington, Plano, Texas – 1997 NFAA ARTS Winner in Theater and Presidential Scholar in the Arts – 1996 NFL Humorous National Champion; 1997 NFL Dramatic National Champion

Zuzanna (Susan) Szadkowski, Fort Wayne, Indiana – 1997 NFAA ARTS Winner in Theater and Presidential Scholar in the Arts – 1996 NFL Poetry National Champion

The 1997 Presidential Scholars in the Arts

(Michael Washington is in the center of the back row-with the glasses) (Zuzanna Szadkowski is third from the right in the second row-polka dot dress with short hair)

Hugh Kennedy, Moorhead, Minnesota – 2004 NFAA ARTS Winner in Theater and Presidential Scholar in the Arts – 2004 NFL Dramatic Runner-up

Hugh Kennedy

D'Angelo Lacy, Creekview, Texas – 2005 NFAA ARTS Winner in Theater – 2004 NFL Dramatic National Champion

Kamen Edwards, Spring, Texas - 2005 NFAA ARTS Winner in Theater – 2004 & 2005 NFL Duo 4th Place

Kamen Edward

Students who will be graduating seniors in the 2006-2007 school year are eligible for ARTS 2007. Registration must be completed online by October 2 and Audition/Portfolio Submissions are due with a postmark deadline of November 1. Students who are not attending high school (ie. college freshmen) may participate in NFAA ARTS 2007 if they will be 17 or 18 years old on December 1, 2006. Students of any age who will be juniors in the 2006-2007 school year are not eligible for NFAA ARTS 2007.

NFAA ARTS Week 2007 will take place in Miami, Florida from January 8 – 14, 2007.

Bickel & Brewer and New York University Offer Students Unique Debate Competition

The New Nationals

by
James M. Copeland

Entries due October 31, 2006

The National Public Policy Forum (NPPF) is one of the most original and valuable debate activities I have seen in my five-decade involvement with the National Forensic League. Sponsored by the law firm of Bickel & Brewer and New York University, the NPPF is the only national written and oral debate competition open to all high schools across the country. No other contest allows teams nationwide to compete—free—for over $25,000 in prizes.

To enter the Qualifying Round of the contest, teams must submit a 2,800-word affirmative or negative case by October 31, 2006. This year's topic is "Resolved: The United States federal government should establish a policy substantially increasing the number of persons serving in one of the following national service programs: Peace Corps or Armed Forces." The NYU Speech & Debate team will judge the entries. Schools that submit the top-ranked cases advance to the Elimination Rounds and engage in written debates.

The final four winning teams receive an all-expense-paid trip to the April 20-22, 2007, Finals in the World's Capital, New York City, to exchange oral arguments. Debaters compete in front of leaders in politics, business, law, academia and debate—like Bob Shrum, high-profile political consultant; Lee Huebner, former CEO of the International Herald Tribune; Bill Brewer, partner at the prestigious law firm of Bickel & Brewer; John Sexton, President of NYU, and other remarkable individuals. The NPPF Finals in New York is so original in its concept that I consider it the "New Nationals."

The NPPF's focus on both writing and speaking skills distinguishes it from other debate events. Agreed, the current forms of debate—Policy, Lincoln-Douglas and Public Forum—offer benefits both educational and competitive, but the NPPF offers an additional benefit: written debate! Written debates require teams to apply more rigor and analysis in formulating coherent arguments, which improves the overall quality of each round. As NYU professor Jay Rosen explains, "It was in print that we learned how to make an argument cohere... And it was through print that we learned how to sustain an idea, sustain an argument over a long stretch of mental time, so that our descriptions of the world could be as complex and nuanced as the world that we found out there." The written and oral persuasive skills emphasized by the NPPF are more than just skills needed to be successful in debate—they are skills that last a lifetime.

Every team should add this tournament to its schedule. There is no cost to participate—no travel expenses, no hotel bills, no rental cars, no restaurant tabs—nothing. (The Qualifying Round and Elimination Rounds are exchanged electronically until the final four teams emerge, then Bickel & Brewer pays for all the expenses in New York.) In addition, this tournament is easy to enter since the topic is similar to the current NFL policy debate resolution.

The prizes alone are reason to enter. Most debate tournaments award trophies to the top teams. The NPPF rewards top teams an all-expense-paid trip to New York City to compete for the $5,000 grand prize. In short, participating in this tournament is a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

I am a big supporter of the NPPF, and I want to encourage all schools—public and private—to participate. The NPPF is one tournament this year that you do not want to miss!

(Serving a 16-year career as NFL Executive Secretary, James Copeland coached debate (1986-2005) for 25 years. His teams closed out the final round at the Tournament of Champions, Catholic Nationals and Emory's Barkley Forum, as well as reaching the NFL National final round.)

For more information about the National Public Policy Forum, visit: www.nppf.net.

◆ Finals in New York City

The NPPF Finals consists of an exciting oral debate competition. A Plano Senior High School debater defends her case during a rigorous question-and-answer period with the judges.

President of New York University John Sexton (ctr), stands with Bickel & Brewer founding partners John W. Bickel II and William A. Brewer III.

The Katrina Project: Hell and High Water

Students from Hattiesburg High School in Mississippi performed The Katrina Project: Hell and High Water before the start of the 2006 National Tournament Awards Ceremony. Co-written by Michael Marks and Mackenzie Westmoreland, the play is comprised of stories collected by the students from local residents as well as information from sources such as Time, Newsweek, and US News.

The co-creators note the play continues to evolve as more information is available. "We are only now beginning to get some accurate figures and unfortunately the tragedy is as bad as predicted, but good things can come from disaster," said Westmoreland.

The National Forensic League thanks the students of Hattiesburg High School, Michael Marks, and Mackenzie Westmoreland for sharing The Katrina Project.
