An Inside Job

Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be.

Abraham Lincoln, 16th president of US (1809 - 1865)

"Once upon a time" was one of my favorite story opening lines when I was a child. I loved the world of make-believe and fairy tales where everyone always lived "happily ever after." Life seemed so simple then. There were heroes, knights in shining armor and magic potions, at least in the fairy tales. Tragic lives were transformed by fairy godmothers and servant girls became princesses.

Happiness seemed to be wrapped up in magic beans or magic dust.

A child's world view is shaped by what they are exposed to. In this fairy tale mentality, somehow the messiness of life is always wrapped up in a neat little package and with a wave of the magic wand, all is well.

My son Cody joined the Army last year. He was just home on leave from his deployment to Afghanistan. He is a happy young man. Ironic, since he is living and working in a war torn country now. Army life agrees with him. He is fit, alert, well-trained and healthy. He takes great pride in his work and in serving his country. He smiles easily.

At 25 years of age, my son has made a discovery that most folks don't realize until much later in life. Happiness is an inside job. No person, place or thing can make us happy. If I can't be happy where I am with what I have, no outside source will supply the feeling. There are no magic pills for happiness.

I would like to think that my son learned this all from me. But the truth is, I have learned from him. As we sat talking one day, I told him how proud I was of him. I mentioned that it was such an honorable thing to give up his life here in the United States to serve over in Afghanistan. He looked me in the eye and said, "I didn't give up my life. I have a life and it's a good one."

As I said good-bye to him at the airport, and he strode through the doors in his uniform, I thought to myself, "Once upon a time, he was just a little boy. Today, he is my hero!"

I wasn't happy to see him go, but I was happy to know that he has found meaning and fulfillment and happiness in his life.

Happily ever after ...

From the Editor

J. Scott Wunn

Dear NFL,

As we reflect on an incredible National Tournament experience and the graduation of yet another group of outstanding seniors and future leaders, it is easy to get excited for the upcoming year. The National Forensic League, its coaches, and member schools have provided tremendous opportunities for secondary school students for 83 years, and we plan to continue this strong tradition.

So, what can our members expect in 2007-2008?

In the next few weeks, the NFL will unveil its new and improved interactive website. Members will enjoy enhanced features that will allow for stronger coach education and better League communication. We hope that the website will become a location where all student and coach members will want to visit on a daily basis for scholarship opportunities, skills enhancement, and interactions with fellow NFLers from across the nation.

In addition, the NFL will continue to be a leading conduit for news related to high school speech and debate. Through its member magazine, Rostrum, its alumni magazine, The Alumni Connection, and its websites www.nflonline.org and www.forensicsonline.net, the NFL will provide key information to keep the community informed of upcoming speech and debate events. We will also provide the newest in coach and student educational resources.

The NFL will proudly represent the interests of high school speech and debate programs throughout the country as it creates key partnerships with those that support our efforts. We encourage our members to get involved with NFL partnership programs like The People Speak Global Debates and The National Public Policy Forum as they further the argument for community support of debate and speech activities.

As a cornerstone of its tradition, the NFL will continue to recognize its students and coaches for their achievements in the activity through New Degrees, Coach Diamonds and National School Awards of Merit and Honor.

Then, the season will culminate at the 2008 Desert Lights Nationals in Las Vegas, Nevada. It is sure to be "one for the history books!"

Thank you,

Scott Wum

NPPF National Competition

Bickel & Brewer / NYU National Public Policy Forum Announces Winners, Raises Grand Prize to $10,000

By: Alfred C. (Tuna) Snider, Director of Forensics & Edwin W. Lawrence, Professor of Forensics University of Vermont

The National Forensic League has for many years provided opportunities for students to develop leadership skills. These opportunities have long been focused on oral communication, but there is now an exciting opportunity to combine written and oral argumentation and debate into a form of combined advocacy.

This 21st Century communication event is unlike any other. This is the Bickel & Brewer / New York University National Public Policy Forum (NPPF), the first national competition that gives students the opportunity to participate in oral and written debates on issues of public policy. The NPPF is available to all high schools for free, and yet offers substantial rewards, both in terms of experience and prizes.

And what prizes they are! And what experiences await students entering the competition!

A large silver cup sits on display in Angela Weber's West Palm Beach classroom. The inscription reads "2006-2007 National Champions." Weber's students know first-hand what it takes to win the NPPF, now being called by many in the debate community "the new Nationals."

Alexander W. Dreyfoos Jr. School for the Arts is the first school to win the NPPF two consecutive years, and the debate team is still celebrating its recent finals victory in New York.

"There is nothing else like the NPPF in the educational realm," Weber says. "The recognition is wonderful, and the money is certainly needed by our debate programs – but what really motivates students to participate in the spirit of competition and the fun they have in pursuing their goals and communicating their ideas!"

Students who register for the NPPF compete for more than $35,000 in prizes, points that can be applied toward the National Forensic League Nationals, and, an all-expense-paid trip to the finals on the NYU campus. Four lucky teams go to the Big Apple and compete in front of top legal experts, leading debate luminaries and top figures from the world of business. The NPPF winning team receives $10,000 for its students to use for scholarship money.

"The idea behind this program was to create a debate competition that was both rewarding and challenging," says Bill Brewer, partner at Bickel & Brewer and founder of the NPPF. "This is an academic competition unlike any other – introducing debaters to a forum that adds a written component to the more traditional debate format."

The competition begins in October. Last year's topic was: "Resolved: The United States federal government should establish a policy substantially increasing the number of persons serving in one of the following national service programs: Peace Corps or Armed Forces."

Students from across the nation are invited to submit qualifying affirmative or negative essays on a designated topic. The NYU Speech & Debate team then judges the entries. Top-ranked cases advance to the Elimination Rounds and engage in written debates that are volleyed back and forth electronically. Judges review the papers in the order they are presented and vote on the winning school. Those winners advance round-by-round and in March the final four teams are announced.

The finals are held in New York City at NYU. After advancing through several written rounds, finalists are given the opportunity to supplement their scholarship with oral argument. In a finals format unlike any other, debaters present oral arguments before a panel of jndges that includes some of the world's foremost experts in academics, law, business, journalism and forensics. Along with Brewer, recent finals judges have included John Sexton, president of New York University; Bob Shrum, political advisor to the Kerry/Edwards presidential campaign; Melissa Maxcy Wade, director of forensics, Emory University; and Ruben Navarrette, a nationally syndicated columnist.

The finals format is a highlight of the NPPF, notes Weber.

"The finals judges are recognized and highly accomplished professionals in fields that most debate students are interested in pursuing," Weber says. "In no other competition do the judges have opportunity to be part of the debate – directing questions to the competitors, asking for clarification or requiring defense of ideas, actively involved in the discussion during the competition. This is when the students must be at their best."

The final trip to NYU is fully funded by the Bickel & Brewer Foundation. Students receive airfare, accommodations, and spending money to visit the sights of the Big Apple. One of the world's greatest debate contests brings students to one of the greatest cities in the world as they step onto a stage far larger than they have ever known, bnt a setting in which many will ultimately find their careers and futures. Now in its sixth year, the NPPF is growing at a record pace. More than 500 students are expected to participate in the upcoming competition.

Weber says it's easy to see why the NPPF is becoming such a "must" for many schools. "No other forensics-related competition is as generous in its recognition of students," Weber says. "That is just one of many reasons this competition is so special."

Next April will be a magic time. Students will be debating and arguing in front of the most impressive panel of judges one can imagine while overlooking the unique skyline of Manhattan. Giant buildings next to debating students who will, no doubt, become giants in their own right. Great experiences and rewards await those who enter.

It needs to be you and your teammates.

Associate General Counsel Marshall Donat, Starwood Hotels & Resorts, and Tuna Snider, director of forensics at the University of Vermont, recently attended the NPPF Finals in New York.

Students from Alexander W. Dreyfoos Jr. School of the Arts prepare for the NPPF Finals.

U.S District Judge John G. Koetl, Bickel & Brewer partner Bill Brewer and New York University President John Sexton recently served as judges of the NPPF Finals, held annually on the NYU campus.

2007-2008 NPPF Competition

How do you enter? To enter the Qualifying Round, teams must submit a 2,800-word affirmative or negative case by October 31st, 2007 This year's topic is, "Resolved: The United States federal government should substantially increase its AIDS/HIV public health assistance to Sub-Saharan Africa."

The 2007-2008 finals will be held April 25-27, 2008, in New York City.

Who can participate? Participation is encouraged from all debate teams, but not limited to only debate programs. English classes, for example, can work with teachers to submit a qualifying round essay and participate in the competition. All school names remain anonymous throughout qualifying and written rounds. NFL Executive Council Minutes

Spring Meeting May 18-20, 2007 Nashville, TN

By J. Scott Wunn

The NFL Executive Council held its spring meeting in Nashville, TN on May 18-20, 2007. Members present were: President Billy Tate, Vice President Don Crabtree, Brother Rene Sterner, Harold Keller, Glenda Ferguson, Kandi King, Pam Wycoff, and Pam McComas. Alternate Tim Sheaff was present and served in the absence of Tommie Lindsey, Jr.

President Billy Tate called the meeting to order at 8:55am on Friday, May 18, 2007.

League Development

Linda Lysakowski of Capital Venture, Inc. presented the results and recommendations of a three month development and fundraising audit of the National Forensic League to the Executive Council. The Executive Council thanked Linda Lysakowski for her company's extraordinary work on the development audit.

The majority of the meeting time on Friday was spent discussing the development audit recommendations. The following motions (under League Development) occurred after the Executive Council had thoroughly considered all elements of the audit report and had reflected on the strategic goal discussions from the 2006 District Leadership Convention.

Moved by Wycoff, seconded by Sheaff

"The Executive Council will hold a strategic planning meeting in conjunction with the fall council meeting in 2007." Passed: 9-0

Moved by Wycoff, seconded by King

"Direct the Executive Director to engage a consultant for continued strategic planning services during 2007-2008." Passed: 9-0

After receiving additional feedback from the District leadership, the Executive Council will engage in a 2 day strategic planning retreat to solidify the long and short term goals of the League. The Council will utilize the assistance of a strategic planning consultant during this process. Moved by Crabtree, seconded by Sheaff "Change the title of the Executive Secretary to Executive Director." Passed: 9-0

The Executive Council determined that a change in the title of the Executive Secretary to Executive Director was warranted as it more accurately describes his role as the Chlef Executive Officer of the League.

Moved by McComas, seconded by Wycoff "Proceed with the hiring of a Director of Development utilizing the action plan framework as set forth by Capital Venture, Inc." Passed: 9-0

During the fall of 2007, the NFL will be hiring a Director of Development to work for the Office of the Executive Director in Ripon, WI. This individual will be responsible for the organization, planning, and implementation of the fundraising elements of the League. A full description of the position can be found of page 13 of this month's Rostrum.

Moved by Sheaff, seconded by Wycoff

"Direct the Executive Director to continue conceptualization and planning of a development committee, including a list of specific potential members, for review at the strategic planning meeting in the fall." Passed: 9-0

During the 2007-2008 school year, the Executive Council will establish a National Development Committee to work with the Development Director's Office. The role of this committee will be to assist the National Office in accomplishing the established financial development goals of the League.

Rostrum

Executive Council

Moved by McComas, seconded by Crabtree "Raise individual NFL student membership fees from $10 to $15 effective September 1, 2007." Passed: 9-0

This modest increase was recommended in the development audit report and was approved by the Executive Council. In order to meet the long term financial development goals of the League, general revenue streams from memberships must keep pace with inflation in the costs of running the League (postage, utilities, travel, staff, etc). The council considered several options and determined that since lifetime student membership fees had not increased since 1986, an increase in fees to $15 will more accurately reflect the value of the services provided to students.

Moved by Ferguson, seconded by Sterner

"Direct the Executive Director to explore the possible relocation of a National Office and to report back to the Council by September 1, 2007."

Passed: 9-0

The Executive Council has asked the Executive Director to gather information on the costs and benefits related to the possible relocation of the NFL National Office. This inquiry was based on a recommendation within the development audit to consider all options for the location of the National Headquarters. The report will consider togistical and financial implications of National Office relocation, the creation of additional regional offices, and the enhancement of the current office space in Ripon, WI.

Regional Office

On Saturday, May 19th, the Executive Council visited the NFL Regional Office at Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, KY. The Executive Council commended WKU Director of Forensics, Judy Woodring, and Regional Director, Tyler Billman, on the fantastic accomplishments of the NFL Regional Office during the 2006-2007 school year.

Executive Council

The Executive Council appointed Brother Rene Sterner to another 2 year term as the secondary school administrative representative member of the council.

Rules and Regulations

Moved by Keller, seconded by McComas "Continue the District Bonus Quota System for one more year."

Passed: 9-0

New Member and Degree numbers from the 2006-2007 point recording season will be used in calculating those Districts that have qualified for certain levels of the bonus system. District Chairs will be notified of their District's bonus level by October 1st.

Petitions

Moved by Crabtree, seconded by McComas "Uphold the Executive Director's decision to deny both petitions from Houston Strake Jesuit concerning an ineligible District Tournament entry." Passed: 9-0

Moved by King, seconded by Sheaff "Approve the splitting of the Idaho District." Passed: 9-0

National Tournament Bid

Moved by McComas, seconded by Sterner "Accept the bid for the Park Hill School District and the North Kansas City School District to host the 2010 National Speech Tournament." Passed: 9-0

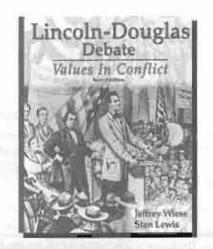

Fatl Council Meeting

The Council agreed to hold its 2007 fall meeting in Las Vegas, NV on September 20-23, 2007.

Adjournment

President Billy Tate adjourned the meeting at 11:45am on Sunday, May 20, 2007.

Other than your coach, who has influenced or assisted you the most in your speech and debate activities?

Henry from Nevada

My teammates have both assisted and influenced how I do things in my speech and debate activities. They're the most honest of the bunch when it comes to critiquing, because, despite being friends, we all want to see each other win and if that means ripping apart my oratory, then so be it. I truly feel grateful for all the support they have given me, whether I'm writing my oratory or taking the extemp boxes to the prep room.

Sarah from Tennessee

I can think of no greater answer than my best friend, Laura. Before speeches, I always get pale. And no matter how hard I would prepare, I would loose self confidence in my abilities, but she never has; not even once. Even when I was losing emotional control, turning pale, and becoming queasy, Laura always responded in the way I needed her most, be it firmly or reassuringly. She has always been steadfastly there, no matter what.

Cailin from Montana

My mother has been the most supportive in my endeavors in debate. Everything from listening to my cases for what seems like a million times to buying me philosophy books to letting me have a monopoly on the computer the entire debate season.

Drew from Oklahoma

Kyle Mellon. He is a great student, teacher, and role model. Plus he killed me in debate til I learned to do it right.

Courtney from Ohio

My best friend became the person who helped me the most in the beginning, Mitva Soni. Mitva helped me in every way that she could and when she couldn't the upper classman were always helpful. Their help was greatly appreciated and will be remembered always.

Amna from Texas

My partner and my friends. How my friends see me when I write my speech affects a lot. It makes me confident about my speech.

Heather from New York

My grandfather is the district chairman for my district and both my parents competed in forensics during high school. My parents and grandparents both wanted me to try forensics and thought I would only do one or two tournaments. After I started going, I stuck with forensics and now have learned a lot about myself and public speaking. I owe all that I have taken with me from the speech and debate program to my parents and grandparents. I thank them greatly for all they have done for me.

Ariana from North Carolina

Mrs. Birdell Smith, one of my elementary school art and religion teachers. As a religion teacher, Mrs. Smith was in charge of coordinating student mass/church services in which the students were required to read scripture. Mrs. Smith showed me, as well as others who now compete in forensics and debate, how to speak eloquently, affluently, add emphasis and pauses where necessary, and above all to have a distinct confidence and poise while speaking, one that demands respect. Although at the time, reading at mass seemed like a small but important task, its necessity has become evident. It is because of Mrs. Smith that I have no fear of speaking in front of a crowd or worrying how my audience will perceive me. I now understand, because of her teachings, that how others view me is a result of my behavior.

Joel from Virginia

The people who have most influenced me the most in speech and debate would bave to be my team. I feel that as a member of the team, I have a responsibility to not let them down. If there is one weak link, the team will fall apart, and I do my best to make sure that I am not a weak link. Without the support of my speech and debate team, I would not have the drive I have in order to compete and do well in speech and debate.

🔷 Student Challenge

Other than your coach, who has influenced or assisted you the most in your speech and debate activities?

Chris from Nevada

My mother, No one person could ever have as much influence as her. She stopped me from quitting and helped me get better and better until I finally qualified for nationals.

Paycen from Idaho

In my first Student Congress competition, I was put in my house with some outstanding people. This one guy stood up to speak. I will always remember when he spoke, chills ran up and down my spine. If you are like me, when you first go into your house, you start looking around and, based on your experience and other students past performance, peg who is going to win. Well, ever since that day, I have always pegged myself as, at most, second speaker. I have even attempted to adopt his speaking style. He is an inspiration to debaters all over. He is going to nationals in Lincoln Douglas, and would have gone in International Extemp. Mark Estrebillo, I thank you for your inspiration.

Michelle from Texas

My English teacher has inspired me as far as logical thinking is concerned. Also, a senior friend of mine inspired me to speak with the utmost confidence in an essay he wrote about how people today go throughout life, unprovidingly, unwilling, uninspirational to the community around them. He opened my eyes to what gifts humans can give and how if you try, you can do no wrong.

Montana from Missouri

My mom has been a big part of my choice to pick speech and debate. I'm glad she got me into it because it's awesome and you learn a lot while your sitting in class with all of your friends. She said that I would do well at it because I like to argue and there are many other students from around the area that I could get to know and challenge them. Even though I have never competed in a tournament, I would love to get the chance to compete and actually do well at it!

Stephanie from Utah

The people, who have influence me the most, other than my coach, are the competitors I meet on the circuit. Sometimes I get really good ideas that come from a good argument that someone made in a round. And other times I get to have a "learning experience" because I got my rear end beaten from here to China and back. Overall, the experiences I share with my fellow debaters and speakers are probably what I'll remember the most, and not every experience involves my coach.

Leslie from Kentucky

By far, the rest of the team. Mainly the students who are in the same events as I am. They pretty much taught me everything, and I am very thankful to have them.

Rebecca from Idaho

My mother and father have helped me the most. They have driven to every tournament this last season from 30 to hundred of miles away.

Matt from Kansas

Surely the person that has both influenced and assisted me most of all throughout my speech and debate career is my squad leader, Caleb Linn, throughout my freshman and sophomore year. Not only did he always provide me with advice, help, and support, but simply by graduating, he set standards for me to meet. Everything I do is in competition with his achievements, even though he graduated nearly three years ago.

Chaylene from Pennsylvania

My parents, and friends, including my English teacher, Miss Sanzone.

Dakota from Virginia

One of the biggest influences in my speech and debate activities, other than my awesome coach, Archie Painter, is my older sister, Brittany Lynn Oher. The reason why is not only because of the admiration and love that I have for her for simply being a good sister and being there for me, but also because she was involved in debate and forensics when she was in high school. Thus, she has taught me lots of valuable lessons, helped me to do research, listened to my speeches and other pieces, etc. Overall, my sister has managed to greatly contribute to my success in debate, forensics, and life, and I am eternally grateful for her hard work and dedication in assisting me to become a better public speaker and person in general.

The People Speak Global Debates Are Here

Register Your School Today!

By Victoria Baxter

In the past year of working with The People Speak, I have been impressed by the National Forensic League students. I've met some of you – at least virtually – on the TPS discussion boards. From those boards, I have learned that you are passionate about global issues and you sometimes like to argue a good point. I should expect nothing less from people skilled in the art of debate!

I hope that you are just as excited about this year of The People Speak as I am. This year, we are introducing a new project called The People Speak Global Debate. This October and March, over a 10day periods in each month, students around the U.S. and the world will all be debating one topic: the best way to lower carbon emissions.

Students can pick one of four resolutions to debate. The October resolutions are as follows:

1. Resolved: Market mechanisms are preferable to regulatory approaches in reducing carbon emissions.

 Resolved: Government regulations are more effective than free market incentives in reducing carbon emissions.
 Resolved: Governments are better at reducing carbon emissions than are the companies themselves.

4. Resolved: Corporations are more effective in reducing their own carbon emissions than are external regulations.

March's topic will focus on water rights. The most exciting part of this year is that schools participating in the Global Debate topic will be eligible to win a trip to attend a youth leadership summit at the United Nations in July 2008.

This is a slightly different approach from The People Speak programs of previous years. The major change is that we want you to share your skills and knowledge with your fellow students. I know that each and every one of you is an effective communicator and skilled researcher. This year, we are challenging you to use those valuable skills to engage your classmates on an important issue that will shape our future and ask them to vote on who they think won the debate.

Sound overwheIming? It won't be. The People Speak will provide you with all the resources you will need to have a successful public debate in your school. We have a great toolkit that provides a stepby-step guide on how to set up your debate and specific suggestions about how to get your classmates interested in this debate. We will also have videos from climate experts and links to other resources to help you get your research started. Above all, you already have all the skills needed to put on a successful debate, now invite your fellow students to come, learn and vote on the issue!

So what do carbon emissions have to do with you and why should you put on a public debate? Carbon emissions are the major contributing force in climate change or global warming. Carbon released into the air from burning fossil fuels has had a negative impact on our environment causing sea levels to rise, rainfall patterns to change, and extreme weather, like hurricanes, to increase in frequency and severity. It's clear that if we don't do something soon to lower carbon emissions, the environment will be damaged and our very way of life may be threatened.

Climate change is a challenge, but also an opportunity. We can change the future, the question is how? Both business and government have roles to play. For example, car companies are exploring ways to make plug-in electric hybrid cars that use little to no oil and still allow people to make their daily commutes or longer drives. Governments can provide tax incentives or direct legislation to require caps on emissions. Policy options are being debated in countries around the world and at international levels, such as the United Nations.

Rostrum 🌒

Holding a public debate at your school is your chance to get in on the action. First, you are going to be educating other students about carbon emissions and opportunities we have for addressing climate change. Second, you are providing a way for your voice to be heard on this issue. After each side presents their argument, you will pass out voting forms (that can be downloaded from the TPS site). Each student will vote on which side of the debate they thought was more compelling. You will then be able to see how your school voted versus others in your state, your region, the rest of the country and several other participating countries!

The Global Debates also provides you an opportunity to extend your understanding of the issue into action. We have a series of other activities you can do to get even more involved. Some of the activities, like calculating your school's carbon footprint will help you learn about how you can make a difference in the fight against climate change. Other projects, like writing a letter to the editor will be great lessons for engaging your whole community on issues and events that you care about. All together, these activities should teach you a lot - not just about the issues, but also about different ways you can make a difference in your community.

If you complete all the activities and coordinate a lot of votes at your school, you will be eligible to win a trip to a youth leadership summit at the United Nations next July. The three-day summit will be a chance to meet young people from all over the world, learn even more about climate issues, tour the UN and New York City and much more!

National Journament

More than Trophies

By Liz Leach

On June 22, the NFL recognized its newest National Champions at the conclusion of the 2007 Kansas Nationals "Where Dreams Come True." As is tradition, each champion received a trophy and traditional orchid lei. While a trophy is a routine recognition of success, the gifting of a lei has a special history.

Each summer, the NFL delegation from Hawaii brings denbrodium orchid leis for the members of the Executive Council and the newly crowned National Champions. According to Karen Miyakado, NFL Hall of Famer and Hawaii coach, the giving of leis to NFL National Champions was begun by coach Myrna Ishimoto, from whom Mrs. Miyakado has taken over the tradition.

The history of the lei begins with the earliest Polynesian settlers. Having traveled from Tahiti, these individuals created leis as a means of decorating themselves out of bone, teeth, leaves, and other materials to beautify themselves.

Leis can be worn every day or can be given to mark an important event in a person's life. For that reason, the leis are a perfect match to the NFL National Tournament. Clearly, becoming a National Champion is an important event in a person's life. Hawaiian leis mark any important event in a person's life. There are leis of grief, and leis of love, leis of love-making, leis of marriage, of dying, and of birthing. There are leis for political, community, social, personal, farming, and religious ceremony. In earlier times, all of these events overlapped.

While leis can be made out of nearly anything, a popular lei is made from the denbrodium orchid. The NFL National Champions are presented with leis made from denbrodium orchids. The denbrodium orchid is used because it is a remarkably hardy flower. The flower is able to be bruised without much damage and has a rather long life span once cut off the plant itself. The process of creating a lei is one which has not changed substantially since leis were first made. Leis are still made by hand. A large, 12 to 18 inch metal lei needle is used to pierce the blooms so that they may be threaded on to a length of string. The amount of blooms needed to create a lei varies based on the lei being made. Leis can be simply made as a single strand or can take on complex two or three stranded designs. Various types of flowers are used for leis. In fact, each island of Hawaii has its own specific flower for leis.

The NFL is grateful to its member coaches, students, and schools in Hawaii for sharing with the entire NFL family, a piece of history at each National Tournament.

The Harold C. Keller Public Service Leadership Award

The Harold C. Keller Public Service Leadership Award was established to honor Harold C. Keller, who for nearly 30 years has been the driving force behind the John C. Stennis National Student Congress.

The award is presented to a former Student Congress competitor. The purpose of the award is to recognize an individual who has best applied lessons learned through participation in Student Congress in becoming an effective leader in his or her community, state, or nation through public service. The individual recognized has achieved success through public service leadership in government, education, or the non-profit sector.

This year's Leadership Award was presented to Dr. Ali Azizi at the 2007 Kansas National Tournament. Dr. Azizi competed in the 1995 National Student Congress as a senior from Plano Senior High School. Dr. Ali Azizi received his Medical Doctorate from the Texas A& M University Sciences Center in May of 2007.

When Ali was ten years old. All and his family fled war-torn Iran, eventually making their way to Plano after a tumultuous trek through Turkey and Afghanistan and a period of time spent in Germany. Ali first joined speech and debate to improve his English. His debate coach, Karen Wilbanks, recalls him as a student who "studied hard, worked harder and voiced a deep caring for the disenfranchised and downtrodden of the world."

Ali's emphasis in medical school has been in rural medicine to prepare him to work in the U.S. or abroad in underdeveloped areas with underserved populations.

His public service philosophy, as he explains ,it, is truly inspirational:

"In the Peace Corps training camps in Turkmenistan, one of my fellow trainees one day offered a quotation from Lila Watson that is still with me. "If you have come to help me, then you are wasting your time, but if you have come because your liberation is linked to mine, then let us work together." These words encompass my philosophy of public service. Whether it was working with Dr. Soheila Sediq, Afghanistan's Minister of Health and the first woman to hold a ministerial position in her country or serving indigent, immigrant children in Corpus Christi, Texas as part of a pediatrics clerkship, I have found the people I meet teach me more than I ever could have imagined. I have learned from those with AIDS and those dying from tuberculosis. I have found inspiration in the strength of the Afghan people's will to move forward after the defeat of the Taliban. However naive my early desires might have been, I have learned that I can do all I can to help all I can with the tools I have. My desire to become a doctor was so that I could gain more training in the medical field. The more I know, the more I can help with public health issues across this great globe. I want to be able to teach and train other physicians so that even more people can be helped. In this way, I have truly found my liberation."

Personal Congratulations from the Honorable Rex Buffington II

REAL AND EDGE AND A DESCRIPTION

Congratulations to all of the students and coaches who participated in the 2007 Lincoln Financial Group/NFL National Tournament in Kansas!!

The National Forensic League's proud history is largely due to the base of esteemed alumni. Prominent NFL alumni include President Lyndon Johnson, Vice President Hubert Humphrey, Senators Richard Lugar and William Frist, media visionary Ted Turner, Academy Award winners Patricia Neal and Don Ameche, Emmy award winners Kelsey Grammar and Shelly Long, television host Oprah Winfrey, news anchor Jane Pauley, CSPAN founder Brian Lamb, Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer, University President David Boren, Federal National Mortgage CEO Franklin Delano Raines. Our ranks continue to grow with over one million active and inactive members.

(NFL bestows lifetime membership.)

Alumni can register now to become part of the NFL Alumni Central Database. Over the course of the next few months, Alumni who register will enjoy the complementary Alumni Magazine with updates of various NFL activities, and opportunities to reconnect with fellow Alumni.

Find out more and register for your complementary magazine by visiting www.nflonline.org/ Alumni or by contacting your NFL Alumni Coordinator Heidi Christensen at hschristensen@nflonline.org or by calling us at (920) 748-6206. We will look forward to hearing from you!

Encourage others to sign up for the Alumni Connection Program so they can continue their involvement with the NFL. Keeping others involved will increase the already growing Alumni connections!

Do you have a great story to tell? Submit writings to be published in the Rostrum or Alumni Connection Newsletter. We are really interested in sharing your testimony with our alumni community.

The NFL staff is excited for the upcoming year and your participation in the alumni program. This program was created because alumni and coaches expressed a desire to become more involved and stay connected with the NFL. The NFL is such an amazing program and no one knows that more than the alumni of the League.

How the Western Oklahoma NFL District Tournament Survived the Tornado

By Betsy Ballard

In our section of central Oklahoma, we have seen some mighty big tornados come and go through the years. North on I-35 five miles or so from our Western OK NFL site (the University of Oklahoma in Norman), the town of Moore has been very hard hit on at least two occasions in recent history, with serious loss of life and property. We take our stormtrackers and their weather advisories VERY seriously during the spring tornado season. So this year at our District tournament during the last week of March, when torrential nontstop rains had fallen during the first 2 days of the tournament, I paid close attention to questions by concerned coaches and students: "What is the procedure if there is a tornado?" Come to find out, their concerns were warranted.

The rainstorm began to let up, ominously, Friday evening while we conducted the second day of the three-day tournament in an impressive brick building on the OU campus, where, we had been assured by OU staff, a roomy tornado shelter took up the entirety of the basement floor ("Safest place for you to be on the entire campus!" they told us). Those of us on the committee kept our eyes glued to the local news, which had long been running weather advisories warning of a complicated storm system coming our way. During the final round scheduled for that night, which had begun around 7:30, we heard the sirens wail and immediately began to gather coaches, students, and judges downstairs in the shelter. The efficient Tab Room immediately "bugged out," with Mike Patterson from Guymon advising "Get the cards!" Allen Dobbs of Edmond Santa Fe scooped up all the individual events cards (they'd been laid out, in the midst of bracketing) and Brit McCabe of McGuiness snatched the judge assignment cards (in the midst of trying to assign judges for the next day's events) and all of us, with the paperwork of the tournament, fled down the stairs. The students and coaches bore the inconvenience bravely (although there were threats of violence when some brave souls started to sing "Kumbaya"), but were glad when the all-clear sounded and everyone could come back up to ground level. The severe storms passed right over us, with an alarming darkening of sky and swirling of air currents, but this time, thankfully, no tornados in Norman, Oklahoma. The committee spoke to everyone, reassuring them if another siren wailed and we had to go back downstairs, when we were released everyone would need to leave campus. The interrupted debate rounds resumed (only one panicked judge never returned, necessitating a judge replacement and the redebating of the entire round), and we finished the rest of the evening without further outcry.

So "Over the Rainbow" has real meaning to us as a name for the upcoming national tournament. We: feel we've almost come to Wichita riding on top of Dorothy's homestead itself.

Student's Account

By Justin Haley, student Choctaw High School

The Western Oklahoma NFL Tournament survived the tornado due to the excellent leadership of our NFL District Committee. These five individuals showed excellent leadership in a time of crisis. They kept a level head and kept the tournament running as smoothly as they could when dealing with circumstances they could not control.

When a tornado threatened Norman, Oklahoma, they showed concern for everyone's safety by sending them to the basement instead of continuing rounds in the interest of saving time. They did not allow anyone above ground until they were absolutely sure they were safe—and only then did they continue the tournament.

"Doc" Betsy Ballard of Norman, Brit McCabe of Bishop McGuiness, Mike Patterson of Guymon, Allen Dobbs of Edmond Santa Fe, and Martin Glendinning of Edmond North showed why they are our NFL District Committee with their amazing leadership during this tournament. Their schools and the NFL district of Western Oklahoma should be proud of them.
