Ethics in Debate

(An Editorial)

We quite often hear the complaint, after the debate is over, 'I know he misread that quote, but what could I do?" or "I'm sure those figures were wrong, but he read them off so fast that I couldn't check them." Rationalization on the part of a losing Not always. Fortunately, team? the majority of debaters look upon debate as a sport and obey its rules. written and unwritten. along with the rules of good sportsmanship.

However, there are a few who follow the old saying, "All's fair in love and war," and class debating as a form of war. With no holds barred, they alter quotations by adding or omitting the word "not" or, more bravely yet, make up statements and credit them to a reliable source. add a few zeros to numbers or make up statistics, crediting them to the ever-popular Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The opposing team, of course, cannot carry to each debate every reference ever published, therefore cannot challenge every statement.

And so, occasionally, on the basis of unrefuted evidence, a debate is won. And to the victors belong the trophies and the glory. But what have they really won? They haven't gained character or respect, or skill - they haven't even gained the satisfaction they are better debaters, that they have skillfully met and countered a strong case. If they haven't won anything except a little gold plate on a mahogany base, which they know they didn't deserve, they have lost rather than won.

Debate, like practically everything else we do, is a learning and growing process. But unless we apply a strong moral code to it, we neither learn nor grow - and we cheat no one but ourselves.

"When the one great scorer goes to mark against your name,

It's not that you've won Or that you've lost, But how you've played the game.'

"An orator or an author is never successful till he has learned to make his words smaller than his ideas.

THE COVER: The time, June; the place, Sioux Falls, South Dakota, heart of the nation and the object of high anticipation on the part of NFL-ers everywhere.

NFL Goes to the Heart of the U.S.

Known as the "Meeting Place of the Northwest," Sioux Falls promises to be a pleasant spot for NFL'ers to meet for their annual National Tournament. Those who have complained of the South's heat for the past two summers will be happy to learn that the average summer temperature in Sioux Falls is a moderate 71 degrees.

Along with the inevitable rounds of debate, individual speech events and congress sessions, there will be spare time to relax after the strain of the day. There are numerous parks in the area which offer entertainment in the form of swimming, golfing and other popular outdoor sports. The girls will be particularly interested in Sioux Falls' large, modern shopping center, within easy reach of the center of NFL activities.

Once again NFL travels into Indian country, as it did in 1956 when it journeyed to Oklahoma. For the entire history of this area is one of a struggle on the part of the white man to conquer the land of the Indian. Sioux Falls is situated in the center of the huge Sioux empire. South Dakota contains the fourth largest Indian population of any state, and has numerous Indian reservations.

Points of interest within the immediate vicinity of Sioux Falls include Devil's Gulch and the Pipestone National Monument. Those who are traveling to Sioux Falls from the west, and those who plan to stay a few days longer to do some sightseeing while they are in the area, will be interested in the tourist attractions in the western part of the state. About 250 miles to the west are the famous Badlands, a rugged region of fantastically shaped rocks and hills. A main highway runs through the center of the 640,000 acre national park.

To the west of the Badlands are the Black Hills, site of the huge carved monument of Mt. Rushmore and the Custer State Park. The region is noted for its unusual cavern formations, quite different from those found in any other part of the nation. The most outstanding of these is in Wind Caverns National Park.

One of the most unique attractions in the area is Dinosaur Park, located on the hills overlooking Rapid City. This contains full sized reproductions of pre-historic animals which lived millions of years ago in the Black Hills area. Constructed of cement, these are, as nearly as possible, faithful reproductions. This is the only exhibit of its kind in the United States.

South Dakota is the home of the largest gold mine in the country, active since its discovery in 1876. This is the Homestake mine in the town of Lead.

Those interested in the Indians will find reservations all over the western half of the state.

Other features of interest in the area are several pioneer museums, petrified forests, hot springs, and scenic canyons.

Those who are interested in further details on the state can get the information from the

Sioux Falls Chamber of Commerce. A. Lauren Rhude, Assistant Manager of the Chamber, has expressed the city's pleasure at being host to NFL this summer, and promises that they will do everything possible to make the stay an enjoyable one.

Directors for the 1958 speech classic will be Miss Terine Kron, declamation mentor, Mr. L. R. Kremer, dramatics director and former debate coach, Miss Dorothy Furrow, English and speech instructor, and Mr. A. W. Scarbrough, varsity debate instructor at Washington High School, Sioux Falls.

Assisting them will be the senior officers of the Washington NFL chapter — Bob Legvold,

Registrations Piling Up

At this time eight-five students have registered for the National Tournament and twenty for the National Congress. The limit of 250 might be reached on or about May 1.

Election of National Officers

This is election year for NFL, the year in which the chapters elect four of the seven members of the Executive Council. Six men have filed as candidates and, as prescribed in the Chapter Manual, each is allotted a column in The Rostrum to set forth his record. By achievement and long years of service to the League, each is entitled to your careful consideration

A ballot is being mailed to each Chapter on which to record its vote as determined at a chapter meeting. The ballot will be worth as many votes as the chapter has members and degrees on May 25.

Although only four officers — President, Vice-President and two Directors — are to be chosen, each chapter should vote for five candidates, ranking them in the order of preference for these offices. In preferential voting like this, the fifth choice often determines a close race.

Important to Vote

Voting is important, not only to choose the officers who will determine NFL policies for the next two years, but as an act of good citizenship. Instructors will do well to make this a class project in which the records of the candidates are first discussed and the rules of the election studied. The NFL membership should then be given reproductions of the election ballot, each a number of ballots equal to the number of degrees and extra votes to which he is entitled. When the ballots have been marked official tellers should count them as prescribed in Regulation No. 9. The ballot to the national office should then be marked according to the results of the chapter vote, signed, and mailed promptly.

Amendment, Too

A year ago the Council proposed the following amendment to Art. V, Sec. C, of the constitution:

For every 100 points over 300 secured by any member, he shall be entitled to one more vote, but not more than ten votes.

At present a member gets the extra vote for each hundred points above 200. Since Distinction requires 250 points, he needs to add just 50 more to get the extra vote — less than he needed to go from Excellence to Distinction. The change would affect members and chapters only slightly, but would make the progression of votes more logical. If ratified, it becomes effective July 1.

District Chairmen

Ballots are also being mailed for the election of District Chairman and Committee. District officers are the ones who plan and conduct your district tournament, schedule and direct your student congress, determine which schools shall receive NFL charters. If you want these NFL projects next year to be well planned and well managed, vote for district committee members you are confident will do that kind of a job for you.

Here again it is highly important that each chapter vote for three committee members and two alternates. In a great many cases the votes for the alternates determine the election. To get the kind of program you want, you have to vote for the people who will give it to you.

Karl E. Mundt

From 1925, when he helped draft the NFL constitution, to the present day, Karl E. Mundt has an unbroken record of service to the League as Vice-President, Editor and President.

His office in Washington is always open to NFL officials and many important meetings have been held there, including one with a representative of the Ford Foundation which resulted in a grant of $24,000 to the League.

The NFL members who participated in the Alexander Hamilton Bicentennial convention last year and received the substantial scholarships are indebted to Senator Mundt, who promoted the enabling legislation and served as Chairman of the Bicentennial.

This year he looks forward to greeting personally each contestant. congressman and coach at the national meeting in Sioux Falls.

NFL deserves to have as its President a nationally prominent man — Senator Karl E. Mundt.

E. J. Diller

E. J.'s idea of the contest is not to win primarily, but to motivate as many as possible to do better work than they would otherwise. Attorney Jack Kerensky, a graduate of Chaney and an NFL member, bears out this thought in the following tribute:

"A big cigar followed by a big man with a 'big' heart: E. J. Diller, who no doubt has more people indebted to him than a bank has outstanding loans; the big difference being that money is owed to the bank and gratitude is owed to Mr. Diller. He has graciously given up sleep, rest and recreation and donated this time to a group of kids so that we could improve ourselves not only as debaters but as prospective citizens seeking our place in society. Many of us owe our ambitions and positions to the never tiring efforts of E. J. Diller."

Vote for an active speech coach for Vice President.

THE CHANEY CHAPTER Bill Dyer, President

J. Edmund Mayer

I. J. Edmund Mayer, Vice-President of the NFL, am asking for your support in the coming election. The job of raising money for our organization is not finished; but we are in the process of getting a good start.

A million dollars, which is our aim, would do wonders for the NFL. It would benefit our local, district and national organizations. We will do many of our most promising young people — and ourselves — a great injustice if, in our present eagerness to reward tomorrow's scientists, we slight tomorrow's scholars, artists and leaders.

We must and will provide worthwhile scholarships for our own at district, state and national levels.

Large 'organizations and wealthy individuals have been contacted, and the response is gratifying. Such organizations as: The Lions International, the Austin Manufacturing Co., the Land Tile and Trust Co., the Toastmasters International and a number of oil men and others with wealth.

With your permission, I should like to continue in this good and worthwhile work. We must direct our strength to this immense goal.

> J. EDMUND MAYER NFL Vice-President

For National Director, L. D. Hanks of Los Angeles-Marshall is a man with experience, ability and deepest speech interests. Day, as he is affectionately known, has just completed a two-year term as Secondary School Counsellor on the Western Speech Association Council, is on the Board of Directors of the Speech Association of America and has been one of the promoters of the California High School Speech Council.

In NFL, Day was District Chairman for seven straight years; his chapter won the Leading Chapter Award in 1948, again in 1953 and is on the way to repeating it; he helped to conduct the 1951 National Tournament at Pepperdine; he has served a term as National Director; he coached a National Tournament champion and an American Legion national winner, plus numerous state champions.

However, we feel his greatest contributions to any position he holds are his objectivity of approach to problems, his thoroughness of analysis, and forthright expression of ideas in a discussion.

We solicit your support for the candidacy of L. D. Hanks for National Director.

JOSEPH G. LAGNESE For the California Coaches

James F. Hawker

For National Director, James Hawker of Jefferson High School, Lafayette, Indiana, is a logical choice. He has just completed a term as National Director. He has been associated with NFL activities for a period of 12 years. This past year he initiated a new chapter at his present school; the February Rostrum showed this chapter as having been the fourth most active chapter in the nation in the matter of enrolling new members and degrees since September.

On the District level, his reelection for five straight years as District Chairman proves his popular success as an administrator of NFL business. His NFL entries have won the District Sweepstakes trophy seven times in the past nine years.

In 1953-55-56-57 he was picked by the Executive Secretary to serve in the national tournament office. He holds the Diamond Key and two Distinguished Service awards.

R. J. Happe

For National Director, R. J. Happe of South St. Paul, Minnesota, is a logical choice. His chapter has been the leading chapter in Minnesota for 15 years, and always among the nation's leaders. The South St. Paul Chapter is now second largest in the nation.

"R.J." has served as District Chairman for 13 years and National Tournament Official for eight years. He is a three-diamond coach, one of two in the nation, and has the largest credit point total of all coaches — 6,034. His students have attended the Nationals for nine consecutive years and have won a TKA award, a second in debate and numerous other honors and trophies.

No one believes in NFL and its program more than "R.J." Because of his interest and his remarkable record in NFL, we sincerely recommend his election to the Executive Council.

SOUTH ST. PAUL NFL MEMBERS

Mrs. Evans Wins Key

Mrs. Doris Evans was asked. eleven years ago, if the Willis High School debating team might use her name as a sponsor. There would be, she was assured, no work involved. But when the team returned from its first tournament with the consistent, but discouraging record of straight losses. Mrs. Evans decide to put to use her years as a debater and her studies as a college speech major. Today she is the chairman of the Western Ohio NFL district and on the state committee of the Ohio State High School Speech League.

All her forensic work is extracurricular, for she is a Latin teacher at Willis High School. Last summer she traveled to Rome on a Classical League scholarship, where she did graduate work in Latin at the Academy of Rome.

Mrs. Evans has a rather impressive speech record herself, both as a varsity debater in high school and as a member of the Ohio Wesleyan varsity team.

Californian Rates High

Tom Gompertz, energetic senior from Merced, California, has been active in NFL for four years. The highlight of his record was his election to the National Student Congress Senate in the spring of his junior year, where he served with distinction. Outside of forensics work, he is president of the Key Club, a DeMolay officer, a member of the California Scholarship Federation and of the school newspaper staff. Of his participation in class politics, he says, "One of my greatest accomplishments: I made the runoffs in elections for the presidencies of my freshman class, senior class, and student body, only to lose in those darn little run-offs every time. This has lead to the conclusion that the only election I'll ever win will be when they elect the man most likely to lose an election."

His interests and personality are evident in the following paragraph from his letter: "I enjoy swimming, tennis and golf; have absolutely no ear for music; am fond of the opposite sex; enjoy people; and have a great fondness for my speech coach and past and present debate partners."

Tom has just won the California American Legion contest, the Bank of America scholarship, and qualified for the 1958 nationals in debate and extemp.
